Judge Rowe, Judge Keadle among Bar Foundation Fellows

For immediate release Tuesday, April 22, 2014

CHARLESTON, W.Va. – A sitting circuit judge and a retired circuit judge are among the eighteen West Virginia lawyers named 2014 West Virginia Bar Foundation Fellows.

Eleventh Judicial Circuit (Greenbrier and Pocahontas Counties) Judge James J. Rowe and Senior Status Judge Thomas Keadle of the Twenty-Sixth Judicial Circuit (Lewis and Upshur Counties) will be honored during the Sixteenth Annual Bar Foundation Fellows Dinner at 6 p.m. on April 24 at the Charleston Marriott Town Center.

The dinner also will be a celebration of the Bar Foundation's Twenty-Fifth Anniversary.

Other honorees that night will include John Bennett of Logan, a member of the West Virginia Courthouse Facilities Improvement Authority; and John Lukens of Charleston, a member of the West Virginia Lawyer Disciplinary Board.

The Bar Foundation says Fellows are "those judges and lawyers whose professional, public and private careers have demonstrated outstanding dedication to the welfare of their communities and honorable service to the legal profession."

The West Virginia Bar Foundation is the philanthropic organization of the state legal profession.
