West Virginia Judicial Association tours United States Capitol For immediate release

CHARLESTON, W.Va. – About 60 judges, spouses, and court employees traveled to Washington, D.C., on an invitation from West Virginia’s Congressional members.

The West Virginia Judicial Association, which was having its spring judicial conference in Martinsburg, W.Va., was invited by Senator Joe Manchin and Representative Evan Jenkins to tour the Capitol, the Senate Chambers, and the Library of Congress on May 24.

The Judicial Association paid for the trip to Washington, where the judges were greeted by Senator Manchin, Senator Shelley Moore Capito, and Representative Alex Mooney.

Judge Eric O’Briant of Logan and Judge Christopher Wilkes of Martinsburg, president and vice president respectively of the Association said “the West Virginia Judicial Association would like to thank our Federal Legislative Delegation for the opportunity to meet and hospitality shown during our trip to the Nation’s Capital.”
