Judge Bloom to speak at National Foster Care Month event

For immediate release

CHARLESTON, W.Va. – Thirteenth Judicial Circuit (Kanawha County) Judge Louis “Duke” Bloom will speak during a celebration of National Foster Care Month at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 17, in the Lower Rotunda of the Capitol in Charleston.

Families and advocates for children in foster care also will speak. Cake and punch will be served.

Photos and stories of adoptive families from around the state will be on display in the rotunda through the month of May as part of the Adoptive Family Portrait Project. The project’s goal is to encourage families to adopt and create awareness about foster care and adoption.

Judge Bloom is chairman of the Court Improvement Program Board Services to Children and Families Committee.
